Interagency Agreement
between the
National Center for Health Statistics
and the
U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission

I. Purpose

The purpose of this Interagency Agreement is to obtain services from the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS) to evaluate the trend in the measurements specified in Attachment A using the studies specified and the ages within each study as specified. Above the age of two years, the comparison(s) will be performed on yearly intervals. Before the age of two years, the comparison(s) will be conducted at 3 month intervals. Appropriate statistical tests will be performed to determine if any changes in the measurements are statistically valid.

11: Background

In order to assess safety issues, related to consumer products, a complete and reliable source of the physical characteristics of infants, children, and youths is essential.

To fulfill this need, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) initiated a program in 1972 to establish a comprehensive body of data that would be useful to the agency as well as other organizations. Initially, CPSC contracted for a literature search of anthropometric studies of infant and child measurements. The results, which constituted at the time, a comprehensive review of child and infant measurements, are presented in Source Data of Infant and Child Measurements: Interim Data 1972 which references 800 studies providing child measurement data. While this comprehensive review of the literature revealed that a large number of studies had been conducted, the data needed for a number of then current safety applications were non-existent. A large number of these studies were longitudinal (rather than cross-sectional) surveys designed to study the growth of a fixed population over a period of time using only a few basic measures such as height and weight. All the studies were limited in that they either used specific populations, selected age ranges, or only a few measurements, and did not consider differences due to region of the country, ethnic origin, and other environmental and socioeconomic factors likely to affect the sizes of children. Even if these factors had been considered, and if all the measurements necessary had been taken in one study or another, differences due to measurer technique, definitions in measurements, and differences in age groupings would make it impossible to compile these data into one common source of reliable and consistent information.

As a result of the need for more useful and current child measurement data for product safety design, CPSC contracted for a study in 1974 which is reported in the publication, Physical Characteristics of Children as Related to Death and Injury for Consumer Product Safety Design. A total of 41 body measurements were taken on over 4,000 infants and children representing the U.S. population from two weeks through 12 years of age.

In 1975, CPSC contracted for an extension of that study in which 87 measurements were taken on an additional 4,100 children ranging in age from 0 to 18 years. That information is reported in the publication, Anthropometry of Infants, Children, and Youths to Age 18 for Product Safety Design. Since its publication, this study has gained world-wide acceptance and has been and continues to be used for the design and evaluation of countless products intended for this product user audience.

It has been 20 years since the original CPSC anthropometric data were taken. Because of the long passage of time and the potential for changes to have occurred in the data, CPSC has a need to evaluate if there have been any significant dimensional changes in the current child population in comparison with anthropometric data CPSC obtained in 1975 and 1977. If significant changes are detected, CPSC may consider a new comprehensive anthropometric study.

The only surveys of children that have a comparable link in the past are those studies sponsored by the National Center for Health Statistics. This series of studies which started in 1960 are primarily intended to assess the state of health of the U.S. population. There are six studies in the series and several have one or more anthropometric measurements which may be compared with a more recent study. The first three studies are named the Health Examination Surveys (HES I-III) while the most recent three studies are called the National Health and Nutrition Examination Surveys (NHANES I - III). Each survey concentrated on a specific measurement and an age group. Therefore, comparisons must be performed between those studies that contained the same measurements across the same age groups. Attachment A and the text below in the Scope of Work, states the measurement and the appropriate studies and age groups which are to be compared. For example, weight is to be compared between the NHANES I study (performed in 1971-75) and the NHANES III study (performed in 1988-94). Similar comparisons are to be made between the other studies as specified below and in Attachment A.

The purpose of the work proposed below is to determine whether there has been a significant change in some of the dimensional characteristics of the general child population of the U.S. This information will permit CPSC staff to make a decision whether to undertake a new comprehensive anthropometric study.

III. Scope of Work

NCHS shall conduct the following comparisons as specified in Attachment A (Note that NHANES means National Health and Nutrition Survey and HES means National Health Examination Survey) : 1) Weight (Between NHANES I and NHANES 111-1-18 years), Height (Between NHANES I and NHANES III, 2-18 years), Head circumference (Between NHANES I and NHANES III, 6 months to 7 years), Sitting Height (Between HES II and III and NHANES I, 6-17 yrs. I Between NHANES I and NHANES III, 2-17 yrs., and Between HES II and III and NHANES III, 6-17 yrs.), Biacromial Breadth (Between HES III and NHANES III, 12-17 years), Wrist Breadth (Between HES III and NHANES III, 12-17 years). These comparisons shall be subdivided into one year intervals for the ages above two years (and up to 18 years) and into 3 month intervals (where feasible) for those ages below two years. NCHS shall apply appropriate statistical analyses to determine whether any changes noted in the comparisons are valid and whether there has been a significant change in these physical dimensions of the population that may warrant further study. NCHS shall provide CPSC with a draft written report of the findings. CPSC will review the draft report and provide comments on the report to NCHS within ten working days. NCHS shall then provide within ten working days of receipt of the CPSC comments; a final report which incorporates the CPSC comments.

IV. Transfer of Funds

CPSC agrees to transfer $50,000.00 to NCHS, CDC, upon the effective date of this agreement, for costs incurred by NCHS, CDC in the performance of this interagency agreement. NCHS, CDC agrees to reimburse CPSC any amount not expended in the performance of this agreement. This agreement authorizes Fiscal Year 1997 funding. SEE ACCOUNTING INFORMATION BELOW.

2) evaluate the trend in anthropometric measurements obtained by the National Center for Health Statistics in their various national health surveys to determine whether dimensional changes may have occurred in the National population.

2. Section III. Scope of Work, paragraph B. is modified to read as follows:

B. CPSC will sponsor a study on a cost-sharing basis with NIST to evaluate the trend in certain anthropometric measurements obtained in studies performed by the National Center for Health Statistics. These studies have accumulated limited anthropometric data on a statistically valid sample of the U.S. population since the 1960's. The capability exists to compare similar measurements taken in several of these studies and determine whether there has been any statistically valid change in those measurements. Such a change would be interpreted as an indicator that other dimensional changes have taken place and that the a new comprehensive anthropometric survey on children should be considered. The benefit of this work will be a low-cost determination of whether the present CPSC data base of children's measurements is representative of the nation's population.

3. Section V., Delivery or Performance, item b., is modified to read as follows:

- b. Anthropometry Report One original March 31, 1998

- c. Evaluation of One original March 31, 1998

4. Section vi., Period of Performance and Termination Conditions is modified to read as follows:

This agreement is effective when signed by both parties and shall remain in effect through March 31, 1998, unless modified in writing by mutual agreement or terminated by either party upon sixty (60) days written notice.

BETWEEN THE
MARTIN ARMY COMMUNITY HOSPITAL
FORT BENNING, GEORGIA
AND THE
U.S. CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION

I. Introduction

The Martin Army Community Hospital, Fort Benning, Georgia, (hereinafter called MACH), agrees to furnish the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (hereinafter called CPSC) the services described herein and in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth under III, Statement of Work, below.

II. Purpose

The purpose of this Interagency Agreement is to continue the services that MACH provided under Interagency Agreement CPSC-IAG-96-8055 with the CPSC for continued participation in the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS) with CPSC during the period set forth in VI, below.

III. Statement of Work

The MACH shall furnish services and facilities to conduct the work as set forth below.

Hospital's Scope of Work

Independently, and not as an agent of the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), the MACH shall provide the personnel and facilities necessary to perform the following tasks, except as provided in Paragraph D, "Government Furnished Materials/Equipment?"

A. NEISS Surveillance Report:

1. The hospital shall establish a control system within the hospital to record on its emergency room patient records the patient's age, sex, diagnosis, body part affected, disposition, product(s) involved (if any), location of accident or incident (if any), and such other information as may be specified in the NEISS Coding Manual (copy provided for information purposes) and in special survey instructions. A brief description of each accident or incident shall also be recorded; e.g., "fell off bicycle." Product brand names shall also be recorded whenever obtainable. The hospital shall solicit this information during the patient interview or treatment.

2. The hospital shall:
 - (a) Permit a representative of CPSC (Mike Langford, Cataula, Georgia), in whose selection the hospital concurs, to review the hospital emergency case records on a daily basis.
 - (b) Allow the CPSC representative to code all in-scope records on a daily basis in accordance with the NEISS Coding Manual provided by the Government, and any special survey or other instructions. Coding and record reviewing hours shall be scheduled at a time convenient with the hospital's emergency room schedule.
3. When the CPSC representative is notified by CPSC, by telephone or micro computer, that a specific transmitted case is one of the occasional cases selected for a follow-up inquiry, the hospital shall supply the name, address and telephone number of the patient to the CPSC representative (Mike Langford, Cataula, GA). Follow-up inquiries will be performed by telephone or in person by representatives of CPSC or other Federal agencies. Such inquiries will only be performed on a small fraction of the hospital's reported injury cases. Patient identification information will only be supplied to trained interviewers to permit them to gather additional etiologic or epidemiologic data about selected cases from the patient, relatives, or other individuals who might be aware of the detailed circumstances surrounding an injury. Confidentiality of the information reported, as to identity of the victim, will be observed. Patient identification information will be removed from all reports and documents maintained by CPSC. CPSC will not supply patient identification information to other agencies unless they provide assurances that they will not release this information without patient consent.
4. CPSC will provide NEISS orientation and training to all involved hospital/CPSC personnel. The hospital and the CPSC representative shall make available its personnel for training at the initiation of the original contract and as personnel are replaced. This training will be accomplished at the hospital site at a time convenient to both the hospital's staff, CPSC representative, and CPSC trainer.
5. The hospital shall provide a desk and/or table and chair at which the CPSC representative can perform the review and coding of cases.
6. The hospital shall provide a parking space for the CPSC representative's automobile.

7. The hospital shall allow the CPSC representative to use a telephone while on the hospital premises. Any costs incurred by the CPSC representative for long distance calls will be paid by the Government's contract representative, Mike Langford, Cataula, Georgia.
8. The hospital shall permit the CPSC representative to perform the functions described above.

B. Supplemental Surveillance Reports

The Commission may enter into formalized agreements with other Federal agencies to collect and assemble information through the NEISS (National Electronic Injury Surveillance System), or to carry out special inquiries on injuries that would be of particular interest to the other agency. In these instances only, the definition of in-scope cases will be broadened and the CPSC representative shall code and transmit additional cases in accordance with additional coding instructions to be issued by the CPSC Project Officer. The hospital shall provide access to the information required.

c. Duties of the CPSC Representative

For the hospital's information, the duties of the CPSC representative are as follows:

1. The CPSC representative, with the hospital's assistance, shall help establish a control system within the hospital to ensure that physical injuries treated, or otherwise processed in the hospital, will be reported in the detail specified herein.
2. The CPSC representative shall furnish reports in accordance with specific instructions contained in the NEISS Coding Manual and other instructions. The emergency room records are to be made available daily to the CPSC representative as soon as conveniently possible.
3. The CPSC representative shall make an individual report of each injury by using a micro computer installed by the Commission. All costs of the equipment will be borne by the Commission. The data are recorded according to specific instructions provided in the coding instructions.
4. The CPSC representative shall maintain an accounting of transmitted data and provide the hospital administration with regular reports of data submitted.

5. The CPSC representative shall conduct liaison with hospital staff to promote accurate and complete recording of product-related injury information.

6. Special Surveys

CPSC may, from time to time, request the CPSC representative to temporarily provide additional information beyond that specified in the NEISS Coding Manual, (e.g., type of fireworks involved) in support of a special survey. Not more than six (6) special surveys will be conducted by CPSC during a one-year period and each survey will normally run for a one-month period. Cases identified as part of special surveys will not constitute more than 5 percent of the total product-related cases to be reported by the CPSC representative during the contract period. Instructions pertaining to each special survey will be provided to the hospital and CPSC representative approximately two (2) weeks in advance of each survey. Patient identification will not be required except for occasional cases selected for a follow-up inquiry as described in Section III, Statement of Work, Paragraph A.3., above.

7. Supplemental Surveillance Reports

- a. The CPSC representative shall provide information on supplemental data as specified under Section III, Statement of Work, Paragraph B.
 - b. The CPSC representative shall complete the data coding and transmission to CPSC in accordance with the instructions listed under Section III, Statement of Work
8. The CPSC representative shall regularly provide for periodic meetings, at least monthly, with hospital emergency room and other staff involved with the injury surveillance activity for the contract in order to promote effective injury reporting and awareness of product safety issues. Such meetings should be planned and implemented in coordination with the hospital administration.

- D. Government Furnished Materials/Equipment

1. The Government will furnish to the hospital for use in connection with this contract the materials set forth below:

NEISS Coding Manual (January, 1997)
MEOSS Coding Sheets (Revised January, 1992)
Special Survey Instructions, as necessary
Additional Supplemental Surveillance
