

is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a Regulatory Evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION

16 CFR Parts 1615 and 1616

Standards for the Flammability of Children's Sleepwear: Sizes 0 Through 6X and 7 Through 14; Stay of Enforcement

AGENCY: Consumer Product Safety Commission.

ACTION: Extension of stay of enforcement.

SUMMARY: The Commission announces that it is extending the stay of enforcement of the Standard for the Flammability of Children's Sleepwear: Sizes 0 Through 6X and the Standard for the Flammability of Children's Sleepwear: Sizes 7 Through 14 in all cases involving garments currently used or likely to be used as sleepwear if those garments are skin-tight or nearly skin-tight, similar in design, material, and fit to underwear, and labeled as "underwear."

EFFECTIVE DATE: This stay of enforcement first published at 58 FR 4078, January 13, 1993, which became effective January 13, 1993, and was extended at 59 FR 53584, October 25, 1994, and will continue until March 9, 1998.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Patricia A. Fairall, Office of Compliance, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington D.C. 20207; telephone: (301) 504–0400, extension 1369.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In the Federal Register of January 13, 1993 (4078), the Commission published a notice to announce a stay of enforcement of the flammability standards for children's sleepwear. In that notice, the Commission announced that it would not enforce the Standard for the Flammability of Children's Sleepwear: Sizes 0 Through 6X (16 CFR Part 1615) or the Standard for the Flammability of Children's Sleepwear: Sizes 7 Through 14 (16 CFR Parts 1616) in cases involving garments used by children for sleeping which are: (1) skin-tight or nearly skin-tight; (2) manufactured from fabrics such as rib knit, interlock knit, or waffle knit; (3) relatively free of ornamentation; and (4) labeled and marketed as "underwear." On the same date, the Commission published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking to begin a proceeding to consider whether the children's sleepwear standards should be amended to exempt tight-fitting sleepwear garments, and garments in infant sizes. See 58 FR 4111.

In the Federal Register of October 25, 1994 (59 FR 53584), the Commission announced that it was extending the stay of enforcement of the children's sleepwear flammability standards until further notice. On the same date, the Commission published proposed amendments of the sleepwear flammability standards to exempt tight-fitting sleepwear garments and some infant garments from the requirements of those standards. See 59 FR 53616.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Federal Register, the Commission has issued final amendments to exempt certain tight-fitting garments and garments sized for children nine months of age or younger from the requirements of the children's sleepwear flammability standards. These amendments become effective January 1, 1997.

By publication of this notice, the Commission is also extending until March 9, 1998 the stay of enforcement issued on January 13, 1993, and continued on October 25, 1994. Garments covered by this stay must meet applicable requirements of the Standard for the Flammability of Clothing Textiles (16 CFR part 1610) and the Standard for the Flammability of Vinyl Plastic Film (16 CFR part 1611).

Dated: August 29, 1996.
