To the Commissioners,

Thank you for your attention to implementing a strong Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act. I am eager to hear that you will be voting "Yes" on the upcoming vote on the Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products.

Independent, third-party testing is the gold standard for insuring that toys and other children's products that come to our marketplaces are safe. Testing will help prevent unsafe products from getting into children's hands, will reduce the number of product recalls, and enhance consumer confidence in product safety.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on this important step for safer children's products.

Sincerely,

Linda Bescrypt

To the Commissioners,

Thank you for your attention to implementing a strong Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act. I am eager to hear that you will be voting "Yes" on the upcoming vote on the Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products.

Independent, third-party testing is the gold standard for insuring that toys and other children's products that come to our marketplaces are safe. Testing will help prevent unsafe products from getting into children's hands, will reduce the number of product recalls, and enhance consumer confidence in product safety.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on this important step for safer children's products.

Sincerely,

Nancy Friedman

Subject: Please Support Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products

To the Commissioners,

Thank you for your attention to implementing a strong Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act. I am eager to hear that you will be voting "Yes" on the upcoming vote on the Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products.

Independent, third-party testing is the gold standard for insuring that toys and other children's products that come to our marketplaces are safe. Testing will help prevent unsafe products from getting into children's hands, will reduce the number of product recalls, and enhance consumer confidence in product safety.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on this important step for safer children's products.

Sincerely,

Debra Gakeler

Subject: Please Support Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products

To the Commissioners,

Thank you for your attention to implementing a strong Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act. I am eager to hear that you will be voting "Yes" on the upcoming vote on the Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products.

Independent, third-party testing is the gold standard for insuring that toys and other children's products that come to our marketplaces are safe. Testing will help prevent unsafe products from getting into children's hands, will reduce the number of product recalls, and enhance consumer confidence in product safety.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on this important step for safer children's products.

Sincerely,

Bob Clark

To the Commissioners,

Thank you for your attention to implementing a strong Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act. I am eager to hear that you will be voting "Yes" on the upcoming vote on the Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products.

Independent, third-party testing is the gold standard for insuring that toys and other children's products that come to our marketplaces are safe. Testing will help prevent unsafe products from getting into children's hands, will reduce the number of product recalls, and enhance consumer confidence in product safety.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on this important step for safer children's products.

Sincerely,

Dear CPSC Commissioners,

I sincerely ask for your support and vote YES at next week's meeting regarding independent, third party lab testing of children's products to assure they meet safety standards prior to their sale in the USA. This type of testing would include packaging, labeling, and instructions, which would have likely saved my dear friends daughters life and many other children. I am a mother of two children and if it were in your shoes it would be an easy vote of YES. This is the only way to prevent dangerous products from hurting our children.

Thank you for all that you do to protect our children.

Subject: CPSC & Independent Testing of Children's Products

Dear Commissioner Adler,

I am writing to ask you to please vote for independent testing of children's products. As a mother of a 13 month old, I receive your agency's recall emails (and have since I found out I was pregnant). Its crazy how many products are recalled each week and I wonder how many more might be on the cusp of safety. Navigating the labyrinth of consumer products is overwhelming and believe it or not, we really do look to your agency to protect us, which I believe always means erring on the side of safety. This isn't about someone using a product totally inappropriately, it's about basic safety and managing company's that don't follow or understand the safety rules.

Please help us protect our children!

Thank you,

Pamela von Eiff

Please vote Yes on Oct 19 to require independent lab testing of Products for children. My granddaughter very well might have been alive today had better oversight of labeling and warnings not to mention actual performance testing been in place. So that fewer grandparents have to experience such tragedy, we must do all that is possible to safeguard their children's children.

Commissioner Thomas Moore
4330 East West Highway
Bethesda, MD 20814

Dear Commissioner Moore,

Our children should no longer be used as guinea pigs when it comes to the safety of toys. Which is why I'm asking you to vote YES on the rule requiring third-party, independent safety testing of children's products before they make their way to our children.

Third-party testing is a common-sense, effective way to prevent unnecessary harm to our kids. Countless products are now imported from overseas manufacturers that don't have the same safety requirements as we do here in the United States, making independent safety testing vital to keeping unsafe imports off store shelves.

Independent safety testing and certification also will prevent costly and disruptive recalls that can damage our vulnerable economy. And most important, testing will catch hidden problems such as lead and other dangers that even the most vigilant parents cannot catch.

Please vote for and implement the third-party testing rule, and put in place the common-sense measures that will keep our children safe from hidden dangers in their toys.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Minerva Novoa

Dear CPSC Commissioners,

I sincerely ask for your support and vote YES at next week's meeting regarding independent, third party lab testing of children's products to assure they meet safety standards prior to their sale in the USA. This type of testing would include packaging, labeling, and instructions, which would have likely saved my dear friends daughters life and many other children. I am a mother of two children and if it were in your shoes it would be an easy vote of YES. This is the only way to prevent dangerous products from hurting our children.

Thank you for all that you do to protect our children.

Thank you for your attention to implementing a strong Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act. I am eager to hear that you will be voting "Yes" on the upcoming vote on the Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products.

Independent, third-party testing is the gold standard for insuring that toys and other children's products that come to our marketplaces are safe. Testing will help prevent unsafe products from getting into children's hands, will reduce the number of product recalls, and enhance consumer confidence in product safety.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on this important step for safer children's products.

Sincerely,

To the Commissioners,

Thank you for your attention to implementing a strong Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act. I am eager to hear that you will be voting "Yes" on the upcoming vote on the Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products.

Independent, third-party testing is the gold standard for insuring that toys and other children's products that come to our marketplaces are safe. Testing will help prevent unsafe products from getting into children's hands, will reduce the number of product recalls, and enhance consumer confidence in product safety.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on this important step for safer children's products.

Sincerely,

Mary Christine Erikson

To the Commissioners,

Thank you for your attention to implementing a strong Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act. I am eager to hear that you will be voting "Yes" on the upcoming vote on the Third-Party Testing Rule for Children's Products.

Independent, third-party testing is the gold standard for insuring that toys and other children's products that come to our marketplaces are safe. Testing will help prevent unsafe products from getting into children's hands, will reduce the number of product recalls, and enhance consumer confidence in product safety.

I urge you to vote "Yes" on this important step for safer children's products.

Sincerely,

Subject: Comment in support of Third Party Testing

October 17, 2011

Dear Chairman Tenenbaum:

On December 19, 2002, my 13-month-old daughter, Elizabeth Morgan Davis, died as a result of a poorly designed play yard made by Graco. Had stricter testing standards been in place, my daughter's life, and the lives of other children, might have been saved. If the company was required to test their product against mandated standards, by an impartial tester, they would have immediately seen the danger posed by the design, which included a non-locking changing table attachment and a crescent shaped curved that entrapped the back of Ellie's neck, causing her to suffocate against the side rail of the play yard. I am writing to ask for your support in enforcing the third party testing requirements associated with the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act.

Taking these companies to court didn't appear to be the answer. After filing a product liability suit against Graco, we were cornered into a settlement agreement that accomplished nothing in protecting other children. Barely a year later, another child in Canada died from the same faulty design, and as you have seen in the recent data as CPSC argues to make voluntary standards into required ones, more and more children continue to be injured or killed in these poorly tested products. How can a company, looking out for their profits provide stringent, non-bias feedback when testing their own products? We need third party testers to ensure that manufacturers receive honest, objective test results. If we, as concerned parents cannot ensure this fight on their, it is my hope that the CPSC can.

We cant's simply let manufacturers hide behind warning labels, either. Labels serve an important purpose of course, but not when they are merely rhetoric designed to protect manufacturers rather than the children using the products. If something could happen, it should be the case that it NEVER happens. We need testing that covers these issues. For example, in my case, I believe attachments shouldn't even be allowed on play yards. No convenience is worth the cost of child's life, and I'm certain no parent would argue otherwise. So why bother even making something that poses a serious risk in the first place? This is the type of danger I believe an impartial third-party tester could detect, rather than a by a self-contained testing carried out by a manufacturer whose goal is to sell a product worth more profit.

Too many children are injured by unsafe products that reach the market without adequate testing, and I don't want another parent to suffer such a horrific loss as I have. I ask you to remember Ellie and all the children who have died in poorly constructed children's products when voting to ensure third party testing requirements for such products. Manufacturers don't appear to be looking out for the safety of our children, so I am vesting that hope in you and in the entire committee.

Sincerely,

Lisa Lorraine Olney
