Summary of Meeting:

The subcommittee met to review the recent revisions to the proposed tip-over criterion methodology report. A member presented the updated content and introduced an additional foam-crush test focused on cranium impact. Members discussed the proposed methodology and provided feedback. CPSC offered support in testing the proposed methodology to compare results with other subcommittee members to assist in developing testing terminology.

The committee member will finalize the report prior to the next meeting.

Next Steps:

A poll will be sent out to the group to determine a date for the next meeting. The meeting is expected to take place in November and will be held via Webex teleconference.
