Summary

- Introductions
- Discussion of task group on messaging
 - Connie prepared thumbnails for posters
 - Joe Galbo also prepared some mockups of posters focusing on the products
 - The issue in schools is not beakers, but 1-gallon jugs
 - Connie proposed a campaign slogan of "Pause Before You Pour"

- Discussion on ACS/PBS video
 - <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5sfUI6GldYo&t=26s>
 - The video may not be appropriate for everyone, it may encourage some (perhaps high school students) to try to induce flame jetting
- Discussion on sharing awareness information
 - Scott Ayers, Adam St John, and Josh Dinaburg presented at the NFPA Conference and Expo in June
 - Kerwin McNamara is submitting an abstract for the International Arson Investigators conference in April of next year
 - Scott Ayers was looking at the National Education Association
 - Marta Gmurczyk wants to include flame jetting at ACS conferences and at an upcoming NTSA workshop
- Discussion on flame arrestors and flame mitigation devices
 - Importance of flame arrestors
 - Update on the Congressional bill, HR 919
 - Update on ASTM activities
- Discussion on data
 - CPSC is trying to track all Flame Jetting and container ignition events
 - Please let Scott Ayers know if you are aware of any
 - The intention is to release data after the end of 2018
 - Anybody interested in working with that data should contact Scott Ayers
- Discussion on training
 - Discussion on the various groups that could benefit from training
 - Fire service
 - Other investigators
 - Teachers and other educators
 - Form a task group
 - Focus the task group on developing training for educators
 - The task group should choose the final scope. Flame jetting has occurred in various educational settings like schools, science museums, and summer camps
 - Lisa Hartman of NFPA is the tentative chair, assuming NFPA management buy in
 - Those interested in participating should email Scott offline
- Website
 - ACS and ABA have website dedicated to Flame Jetting
- Adjourn
