Summary of Meeting:

This task group is focused on potential requirements for drywall anchors used to connect anti-tip devices to the wall. The mission of the group is to determine how to ensure that the drywall anchors supplied with an anti-tip device can hold expected forces, including horizontal pull-out forces. In this meeting, a task group member conducted additional testing on how drywall test panel size affects pull-out force with a washer and nut as a standardized wall anchor surrogate. The task group member provided a video stream so that other task group members could watch testing. Task group members plan to review testing results at the next task group meeting.

Next Steps: The next task group meeting is planned for August 5, 2026.
