Summary of Meeting:

This was the first meeting of this task group, which was formed to discuss a potential new voluntary standard for wall beds. The focus of the meeting was reviewing wall bed incident data provided by CPSC. CPSC staff answered questions regarding the data and provided input on the failure trends found in the data. The task group also discussed potential product types the standard could cover and if there were any existing applicable standards.

To aid in the development of the new standard, the group formed two subgroups: a scope subgroup to focus on determining products to be covered by the voluntary standard, and a data subgroup to focus on further analyzing the incident data provided by CPSC. ASTM requested volunteers to chair the task group and subgroups, as well as participate in the subgroups. CPSC staff volunteered to participate in both subgroups.

Next Steps:

The wall beds task group plans to meet on May 23, 2024. The scope and data subgroups plan to schedule a meeting before the next task group meeting.
