

Jason K. Levine Executive Director

As Executive Director of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, Jason K. Levine is responsible for the programmatic, operational, and administrative functions of CPSC. He manages its regulatory portfolio and supervises CPSC's efforts to identify and reduce hazards to consumers. Levine's oversight includes compliance enforcement, import surveillance, and international programs. He also oversees the agency's financial management and outreach to the public and stakeholder communities.

Levine is no stranger to CPSC, having spent six years at the agency in leadership roles between 2009-2015, including Chief of Staff in 2014, and Director of Legislative Affairs in 2015. He rejoined CPSC in January 2022 as Acting Director of the Office of Communications and, subsequently, Senior Advisor to the Chair. Immediately prior to rejoining the agency, for almost five years, Levine was Executive Director of the Center for Auto Safety, a leading independent national non-profit vehicle safety organization.

A long-time consumer protection advocate and attorney, Levine's commitment to public service is well-established, having worked at four different federal agencies, including as the Director of the Office of Congressional, Legislative, and Intergovernmental Affairs at the U.S. Office of Personnel Management. He also worked in an advisory capacity to the Assistant Secretary for Aging at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Levine began his career in public service as Chief Counsel to a Commissioner of the Federal Election Commission.

Levine has long been involved in his community by serving on public service-oriented boards and committees. These include four years on the Board of Directors of Advocates for Highway and Auto Safety, three years as the Vice Chair of the ABA Administrative Law and Regulations Section of the Consumer Products Committee, and seven years on the Board of Directors for the Washington, DC Chapter of the Crohn's and Colitis Foundation. He also fulfilled a term each as Chair and Vice Chair of the Montgomery County, Maryland Advisory Committee on Consumer Protection, and as a Commissioner of the Montgomery County, Maryland Commission on Health.

Levine is a graduate of the University of Connecticut School of Law, with honors, and received a Bachelor of Science degree from Northwestern University where his heart remains on football Saturdays every fall. He, and his wife Carin, live with their two school aged children in Bethesda, Maryland.
