ITEM

Proposed Rule Requiring Child-Resistant Packaging for Household Products with Fluoride and Modifying Prescription Drug Exemption for Sodium Fluoride

DECISION

The Commission voted unanimously (3-0) to propose a rule requiring child-resistant packaging under the Poison Prevention Packaging Act for household products containing the equivalent of more than 50 milligrams of elemental fluoride and more than the equivalent of 0.5 percent elemental fluoride; and to modify the current exemption for oral prescription drugs with sodium fluoride so that the exemption level would be consistent with the proposed level for household products. The Commission approved a draft Federal Register notice of proposed rulemaking with changes to propose a nine-month, rather than one year, effective date and to specifically request comments and information on the uses and marketing patterns of glass etching creams.
