DATE OF LOG ENTRY: May 28, 2002

LOCATION: ASTM Headquarters, West Conshohocken, PA

SUMMARY OF MEETING: Subcommittee discussions clarified wording in the standard distinguishing between "infant swings" and "cradle swings." Some discussion of a new incident involving a child submarining through a leg opening requires the CPSC to provide information about that incident to the subcommittee. Discussion about battery leakages and reverse polarity problems led to agreement that a test of leakage containment was not available. The committee will look into the toy standard for guidance. The finger entrapment prevention specifications were added to the standard as well.
