SUMMARY OF MEETING: Representatives of the Hands on Science Partnership paid a courtesy meeting to introduce their organization and member companies and also to discuss the CPSIA and its effect on their company. Specifically, they detailed the science kits that their member companies produce and asked whether they are considered children's products under the CPSIA and need to be third party tested. The representatives were told of an interpretative rule that the Commission is working on to define children's product more explicitly that would maybe address this issue and provide more guidance.
